Training of Trainers in Peacebuilding & Conflict Transformation

20th to 24th November 2017, Nairobi, Kenya

Introduction

The 'Training of trainers in peacebuilding and conflict transformation Course' is targeting 15 peacebuilding practitioners with an interest in deepening their knowledge and skills in peacebuilding and conflict transformation and in designing, facilitating and evaluating trainings. The five day training is divided into two parts: part one, will focus on Understanding Conflict, Conflict Analysis, Conflict Management and Peacebuilding strategies; the second part will focus on skills and knowledge required to be an effective trainer in designing, facilitating and evaluating a training programme. Each part will take two and half days.

At the end of the five days, participants are expected to have gained the most up-to-date knowledge and skills in peacebuilding relevant to African contexts. In addition, they would practice fundamental skills in conducting training in various contexts.

Core thematic areas:

Part One:

1. Introduction: Understanding Conflict, Conflict analysis
2. Theories of conflict and peace
3. Peacemaking and Peacebuilding: Learning from African Indigenous cultures
4. Strategies of Peacebuilding Interventions
5. Fundamental Skills in Conflict Resolution

Part Two:

1. Fundamentals in Adult learning in the African context
2. Exploring the role of a facilitator/training in dynamic contexts
3. Designing a training curriculum
4. Facilitation skills and techniques
5. Evaluating a training programme

Objectives of the training

By the end of the training, participants would have had the space and opportunity to:

1. Deepen their understanding and knowledge of conflict, peace, conflict analysis, theories of peace and conflict;
2. Enhance their skills and capacities in peacebuilding strategies relevant to their various contexts;
3. Enhance their skills in peacebuilding training design, delivery and evaluation;

Training/Learning Methodology and Approach

This intensive training will utilize Adult Learning methodology, drawing from Paulo Freire and others. Participants will be required to fully contribute from their knowledge and reflections in peace, development, human rights, gender rights and humanitarian work, amongst other fields. The learning will, therefore, be experiential and will engage participants in individual tasks, group tasks, case studies, mini-lectures and role-plays and simulations, amongst others. The practical elements are designed to help the participants synthesize the learning and make it relevant to their contexts. Participants will also have the opportunity to design and do 'actual training' facilitation.

Training Facilitators: Lead facilitator – Babu Ayindo

Babu Ayindo has over two decades of experience as a storyteller, teacher, facilitator, researcher and writer. He has taught short courses on arts-based approaches to peacebuilding in seven peacebuilding institutes in Africa, Asia, the Pacific, and North America. He holds a B.Ed from Kenyatta University (Nairobi, Kenya) and M.A in Peace and Conflict Studies from Eastern Mennonite University (Virginia, USA). His doctoral thesis titled Arts, Peacebuilding and Decolonization was recently accepted by the University of Otago (Aotearoa/New Zealand).

Some of his publications include: co-authoring When You Are the Peacebuilder (published by United States Institute of Peace, 2001); "Arts Approaches to Peace: Playing Our Way to Transcendence" published in Barry Hart (ed) Peacebuilding in Traumatized Societies (University of America Press, Inc.,2008); "Trauma Awareness and Healing in the Somali Cluster: A Report on the Status of Achievements, Lessons and Outcomes” (published by Pact, 2010); Mpatanishi: A Handbook for Community Based Mediators (published in 2010 by PeaceNet Kenya); and, In Search of Healers (published by the Coalition of Peace in Africa in 2011).
